Narrative:

On the above date and time, officers responded to an in progress "hot prowl" residential burglary. A female babysitter was at the residence with 3 children when a man rang the doorbell and knocked several times. She was not expecting anyone so she took the children and went into a back bedroom. She then heard the sounds of someone manipulating the rear sliding door, which was unlocked. She looked into the living room and saw the man, who was then inside of the house. She called 9-1-1 and the man fled after hearing that there was someone in the residence. The babysitter stayed with the children until police arrived and made sure the home and surrounding area were safe. The suspect was not located.
