Narrative:

On the above date and time, officers responded to an in progress "hot prowl" residential burglary. The female resident was asleep and awoke to the suspect touching her over her clothing. When the female resident woke up, the suspect ran out the house and fled the area. Officers conducted a thorough search of the surrounding area, however the suspect was not located. Major Crimes detectives responded and took over the investigation.

The Ventura Police Department would like to remind residents to insure their residence doors and windows remain locked during the nighttime and early morning hours. This simple safety measure can help deter and prevent residential crimes from occurring.
