Further investigation has revealed that the suspect in this crime, who was unknown to the victim, entered the victim's residence during the early morning hours and attempted to rob the victim at gunpoint. During the home invasion robbery, the suspect tied the victim up and began collecting items to steal from the residence. The victim was able to break free and run outside to his side yard in an attempt to summon help from the neighbors. As the victim was asking for help, the suspect came outside and a struggle ensued resulting in the suspect shooting the victim one time in the abdomen area. The suspect then fled the scene in the victim's vehicle.

Ventura Police Major Crimes Detectives worked through the afternoon on this case and were able to identify the suspect in this crime as Marcos Robles of Oxnard. This afternoon VPD detectives recovered the stolen vehicle which had been abandoned in the downtown area of Oxnard. With the assistance of Oxnard Police Department's Special Enforcement Unit, surveillance was conducted on the suspect's residence in Oxnard. During the operation, the suspect was seen walking away from his residence. OPD's Special Enforcement Unit attempted to contact the suspect and he attempted to flee on foot. The suspect tossed a handgun while fleeing and an OPD K-9 was deployed to assist in the apprehension. The K-9 was successful in assisting officers in taking the suspect into custody without further force. The suspect's handgun was recovered at the scene.

Ventura Police took custody of the suspect and are continuing the investigation by executing search warrants at his residence. The suspect sustained a K-9 bite during the arrest. No officers or citizens were injured during the arrest.
